About C.O.C.O

The Capital Ovarian Cancer Organization (C.O.C.O.) is a non-profit incorporated in 2007. It is affiliated with the Ovarian Cancer Research Fund Alliance.

C.O.C.O. was founded in memory of Debi Sharfe Furnish. Debi lost her battle with ovarian cancer in 2005, nine months after she was diagnosed.

We hope to honor every woman who has fought this fight by raising awareness in the medical and public arenas; increasing early detection and improving treatment methods of ovarian cancer. C.O.C.O provides the women of the Capital City with the information necessary to make good decisions about their health care. C.O.C.O supports and contributes to the research of the University of Kentucky's Ovarian Cancer Screening Program and the legislative and research efforts of the Ovarian Cancer Research Fund Alliance (OCRFA).

As a result of your support of Tee It Up in 2016, C.O.C.O. was able to donate $19,000 to the University of Kentucky Ovarian Screening Program and $2,000 to the OCRFA. This brings the total amount donated the last 7 years to over $81,000 to these two entities.
